

Sports Ground on Brownfield Sites:

Sports is one of the important parts of education. It helps to develop physical fitness and mental well-being. From primary to tertiary level, in every sector of educational life, the importance of sports is immeasurable. Ensuring the sports facility required huge space and ULAB had the options to use its brownfields. The Management of the University of Liberal Arts (ULAB) feels that, redeveloping a brownfield site into a sport ground will help to create a network within the intra-university and inter-university as well. As a result a relationship among the social communities will build up.

In this regards, The Management of ULAB has built a huge sport ground using unused brownfield sites.

Some facts about redevelopment of brownfield site:

- Brownfield gets its name “ULAB Sport Ground”
- It appears in the middle of permanent campus.
- Redeveloped and sports activities have started from 2010.
